FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MICHELLE FELMAN APPOINTED TO THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS AT CUMMING

NEW YORK – June 26, 2017 – Cumming, an international real estate and construction consulting firm, announced that it has appointed seasoned industry leader and commercial real estate investment executive, Michelle Felman, to its board of directors.

“Michelle’s unmatched business acumen, strong financial perspective, and deep experience in global real estate will help drive Cumming towards our strategic goals,” said Finlay Cumming, founder and CEO at Cumming.

Throughout her distinguished career, Felman has served in several executive and board member roles for some of the largest real estate and financial firms in the United States, including Vornado Realty Trust, LNR Property, GE Capital, and Morgan Stanley. Felman is the founder of JAM Holdings, an investment and advisory firm, and is currently serving as a trustee for both The Partners Group (PGPHF), a global private equity firm, and Choice Properties (CHP- TSX), in addition to her senior advisor role with Turner Impact Capital.

“I am delighted to join the board of such a renowned market leader in project and cost management, and I greatly look forward to working with Cumming’s excellent team,” said Felman. “Cumming’s vision is clear, and its unrivaled growth over the years is a testament to the culture of producing extraordinary results for some of the most renowned developers, investors and end users across all asset classes of the global real estate market.”
